Inhalt / Content	If you are doing qualitative social research, you can be glad to have ATLAS.ti at hand. This advanced workshop is for those of you already working on a project and having coded most of your data. How to continue, how to ask questions, how to use all the tools ATLAS.ti provides? The base material for the course are the projects of the participants. Each participant will be asked to submit the HU, a project description and questions prior to the workshop. During the workshop, each person presents his or her project and we answer questions along the way while looking at the various projects. If you don't have your own data ready, you could also decide to "look over the shoulders" of your colleagues. In that case you should indicate that when signing up. After you have signed up for the course, you will receive a mail from the trainer with further information like how to prepare your data etc.
